MARAMA AT WORK: KEEPING MANGAKINO SPARKLING

Mangakino's field supervisor Marama Mackey-Morgan doesn't start her working day until 7.30am, but she's out and about talking to the people long before then.

"It takes a while to get to work because of all the people who want to chat," she said.

The Mangakino resident has spent most of her life in the area, and as field supervisor looks after litter, sanitation, the cemetery and reserves. She and her team are the first responders to sewer blockages and water leaks.

She loves Mangakino and the fact she gets to look after her home town.

"It's the people that make it, the locals in town. They appreciate what they have and I enjoy helping them out," she said.

She said chatting to people who were out and about was one of the highlights of her job.

"Everybody knows everybody here and the people become part of your routine," she said.

"There are lots of holiday-makers too. They might come from Auckland, Taranaki or Wellington, but people are more happy to talk on holiday - they're more relaxed."

Marama is part of a team of three which covers Atiamuri, Whakamaru and Mangakino. She started working at the transfer station 11 years ago, and said she was the first woman in Mangakino to work in the field.

She and her husband have built a life in the idyllic lakeside spot, and have three children aged 25, 20 and 18.

If you see Marama out and about, be sure to give her a wave!

PRAISE FOR TEAM AFTER VANDALISM

Mangakino-Pouakani councillor Kirsty Trueman gives special thanks to council staff for repairing parks and reserves after vandals ripped up grass around the town recently.

Grass on Matekuri Island was damaged by a car hooning across the reserve and will take a lot of work to get it back to its usual condition.

Mrs Trueman, a long-time resident in the Mangakino area, wants to give credit to the time and effort council staff put into caring for the parks and reserves around the district.

"Our parks team put their heart and soul into keeping the place we love looking beautiful. They do an amazing job, and seeing our community parks purposely wrecked can be pretty upsetting."

The main doors of council's service centre were also recently damaged.

"Damage such as this costs a lot of money to repair, and this sadly wastes funds that could be better used for other things in our town," Mrs Trueman said. "We have an awesome community and damage like this is not common and nor do we want it to be. Love and respect our community, and ask others to do the same."

If you see anyone damaging public property, please call police on 882 9070.
